

Addendum to Statement of Work for Tribal Connections-Four Corners

Background

Tribal Connections Four Corners is a collaboration that includes the Resource Libraries from the states of Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Utah and their Regional Medical Libraries. The collaboration received funding from the National Library of Medicine to capture the lessons learned through their partnership to improve health information access to the Native Americans in the Four Corners area of the United States. During this funding the participants agreed to select pilot projects on which to work together. Three projects were selected:

- Establishment of a contacts database
- Health information needs assessment of the Indian Health Service and Tribal Health Departments in the region
- Development of Go Local information for the Four Corners area on MedlinePlus.

Responsibility

This addendum provides additional funding to the University of Arizona Health Sciences Libraries in the area of evaluation of pilot projects initiated by Tribal Corners Four Corners. An evaluation consultant will be hired to design and guide an evaluation for Four Corners on MEDLINEplus. Possible evaluation tools would be usage statistics from NLM on Go Local and interviews with agencies and organizations available through Go Local to determine whether patients, customers, or patrons located them through MEDLINEplus. The evaluation will be sensitive to the Native American culture.

Timeline
